

WE NOMINATE

the 17 Princetonians—14 men and three women—who make the Princeton Area a better and safer place in which to live by voluntarily assuming the responsibilities of Hospital Trusteeship. In the past few years, in meeting the urgent need for the new hospital that is now only months away from completion, this distinguished group of citizens has figured conspicuously in local headline news, a position it occupies once more this week with the release of the most comprehensive opinion survey ever compiled in the hospital field.

Entitled "Patients Appraise Princeton Hospital," the 60-page report grew out of the Trustees' conviction that the answers given on the Hospital's informal questionnaires, distributed to each departing patient since 1946, were "altogether too flattering." They consequently turned to Opinion Research Corporation, asking whether or not scientific polling techniques couldn't be used in determining patients' reactions to their hospital experiences. Opinion Research accepted the challenge and from that point on members of its staff, many of whom donated countless hours to the project, carried the undertaking forward.

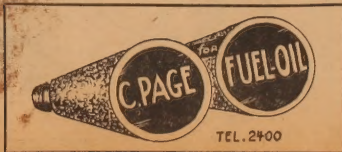

In seeking to measure patients' dissatisfaction as well as satisfaction, research analysts probed a cross-section of discharged patients for "tough questions" before starting to work with some 30 professional interviewers on the "survey sample" of 148 persons. While no efforts whatsoever were made to produce a "whitewash," the findings were still eminently favorable, for nine out of ten patients, or 89 per cent of all those interviewed, gave the Hospital a "strong vote of approval," and no respondent, in rating the Hospital's overall service good, fair, or poor, gave a poor rating.

The study substantiated a point of view expressed by the American Hospital Association to the effect that hospitals too often assume that a highly vocal minority opinion is the reflection of general public attitude. Even on such fundamentals as food, reception, housekeeping, visiting hours and privacy, a convincing majority voiced approval of the Hospital's operations. Only 14 per cent, for instance, stated that the costs of hospitalization are "too much" and four in ten said that the Hospital's charges are "reasonable." For the benefit of future patients, all adverse comments — however trivial — were recorded verbatim, so that they can be investigated and acted upon in the future.

For turning to the community for assistance in trying to raise even higher the Hospital's standards of service to all; for refusing to compromise with anything which might affect the Hospital's best interests; for never underestimating the importance of gaining public understanding in the conduct of public affairs; these men and women are our nominees for Princeton's

Topics of the Town

Hats in the Ring. Borough Republicans filed the name of J. Dayton Voorhees this week as a candidate for re-election to the council and a petition was being circulated for Professor Alfred E. Sorenson as his running mate. The latter, a faculty member in the School of Engineering, is on the municipality's board of health and lives at 150 Patton Avenue.

Democrats had made no formal announcement but expected to file a slate of two candidates before the Thursday night deadline.
Among those being mentioned were Bruce H. French, attorney, who ran two years ago for township committee when he lived in that municipality; John H. Golden, contractor, and former Democratic Club president; and Mrs. E. Harris Harbison, president of the Y.W.C.A.

At the national level, Archibald
S. Alexander, Under Secretary of the Army, yielded to Democratic pressure and announced that he would oppose Senator H. Alexander Smith for the U. S. Senate. Outside the friendly atmosphere of the "Princeton family" (Princeton '28 vs. Princeton '01), it was generally agreed that the younger man would be bucking a strong Republican tide.

Service to Princeton. Princeton's first "Community Day" will be held Saturday, March 29, when more than 40 civic, recreational and welfare organizations in town sponsor a large exhibit at the Nassau Street School. From 10 in the morning until 10 that night, the public will be invited to see displays, skits and motion pictures, all gauged to fit into the theme,
"Serving Our Community."

The Community Chest and the Council of Community Services will sponsor the event, with Mayor
P. MacKay Sturges and Albert Salzman, head of the township committee, named as co-chairmen.
Mrs. Harold Sprout, president of the Council of Community Services, is vice-chairman.

In addition to motion pictures and refreshments, the day-long program will feature periodic concerts by the Columbus Boychoir; an exhibition in dog training obedience by a class in the Princeton Adult School; and illustrated lectures on topics of community interest. The informational program has been arranged to improve Princetonians' knowledge of the many and varied services their town offers.

Behind the Curtain. It's half-way round the world from Princeton to Hong Kong but Group Arts has completed the trip in short order.
Step one was the "cover story" written on the organization's annual exhibition in Town Topics' issue of February 24.

Step two was an illustrated feature story in The New York Times, which saw the nomination of Princeton's "Men and Women of the Week" and assigned as writer and photographer to a trip here.

Step three was a request from the Department of State in Washington (which saw the piece in The Times) and asked Group Arts for pictures and information on its activities. The material will be included in America Today, a magazine distributed by the U.S. from Hong Kong in the ceaseless battle against Communist propaganda in Asia.

Watershed Campaign. A program of conservation against soil erosion in central New Jersey has been started by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, which has its headquarters in the First National Bank Building. Sponsors are being sought in a drive for funds, with the campaign for improvement of hundreds of acres of land expected to be of widespread gain to all who live in the area.

Among the primary objectives of the campaign is purification of Stony Brook to a point where it can be used as a source for drinking water. Members of the association point out that there is no certainty that artesian wells in this area will always be able to supply a constantly-growing Princeton community.

Farmers and landowners in the Princeton-Hopewell-Pennington area have formed the association, underwriting the program, with their own funds. No government subsidy is being used, but the Department of Agriculture and other federal agencies are watching the program with much interest.

Theodore P. Reed, Jr. of Pennington is president of the association, whose other officers are John Faussett, Jr., Hopewell, and David McAlpin, Princeton, vice-presidents; Frederic Peterson, Hopewell, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Bernard Peyton, Princeton, corresponding secretary.

Members may join for $3 a year and receive full benefits of the association's advice. Associate members pay $10, while sponsors contribute $25 and up. Full information on the association's activities may be obtained from its field representative, Henry Houghton, (telephone 1272.)

Carnival Dates Near. Two additional skaters of outstanding ability have been listed as performers in the ice carnival on March 21 and 22. Announcement has also been made that for the first time, artist James Thurber has given permission for production of several of his stories from the book, Fables for Our Times.

Yvonne Sherman, who was very well received here three years ago, and who has won the U.S. and North American women's championships, and skated on the 1948 Olympic team for this country, will be seen in Baker Rink on the final night of the carnival. In the show both nights will be Virginia Baxter, former national junior champion and member of this year's Olympic team.

Tickets for the carnival go on public sale Monday at Hinkson's, 74 Nassau, and the University Store.

Hospital Elections. Curtis W. McGraw has been named to continue as president of Princeton Hospital's board of trustees, while Dr. J. Mercer Rampona will succeed Dr. Ralph J. Belford as head of the medical staff. George C. Wintringer continues as first vice-president; John H. Wallace, Jr. becomes second vice-president, with George W. Conover succeeding Mr. Wallace as treasurer.

Other officers for 1952 will be Edgar S. Smith, third vice-presi-

It's New to Us

A Princetonian Publishes. Not real news, certainly, when a member of this community writes a book, but this one is different. It's "Keep Your Head Up, Mr. Putnam," by Peter Putnam (Harpers, $2.50) soon to be displayed in the windows of the Princeton Book Mart, 11 Palmer Square West.

Mr. Putnam is a young man who lives out Kingston way and teaches part-time in the history department of the University. Mr. Putnam is blind, and he has written this book to tell about his response to the training program at the Seeing Eye.

From this bare set of facts, you might deduce that his book is full of Noble Sentiment and Inspiration. Happily this is not so. Never does he speak of his fate as a tragic one or even one that demands much sympathy. Instead he talks frankly about life at the Seeing Eye and examines his training in terms of a problem in geometry (although he finds that logic doesn't provide all the answers).

Eloquence takes the place of sentimentality as Mr. Putnam tells what it feels like in the dark: "I felt myself a peculiarly earth bound creature, a blind crab upon the sea bottom of the air ocean, yet endowed with a poignant consciousness of its limitless extent above and beyond."

We think you'll enjoy Mr. Putnam's humor, too. We liked the passage in which a Seeing Eye instructor tells Mr. P. just why his particular dog is so suitable for a Princeton man.

The book is not everyone's cup of tea, so don't go for it if you yearn for exaltation. But do read it for an honest account of the way a sensitive, intelligent individual reacted to a totally unexpected experience.

Still-in the Library. Reading and loving and rereading a favorite book is immensely rewarding, but hard on the book. When your favorites begin to lose their spines and boards and come unhealed, it's time to call upon Mrs. Pauline Waage (pronounced "Woggy").

Mrs. Waage will rebind or mend, and she does the tightest, neatest most professional job you could wish for. We've seen samples.

She will take an old book, average size, rebind it in book boards (heavy cardboard, to us) cover it with book cloth in the color you select (for Princeton chauvinists, a hectic orange is available), and put a typed label on the front. She will charge you only about $2, depending on the overall book area to be covered (not on the book's thickness).

If pages are tattering, she will mend them almost invisibly in fine library tape, or cover a whole, fragile page in transparent mending tissue. We think her repaired volumes are sturdier than the original. Every stitch is sewn in by hand.

She can bind music or paper-backed study books in cardboard — Continued on Page 9

COMMUNITY PLAYERS

The third full-scale musical comedy conceived and produced by the Community Players will be presented Friday and Saturday nights in McCarter Theatre. "The Magic Well," a melodious investigation of the charms of Irish folklore, is the work of some 70 Princetonians comprising the authors, cast, chorus, stage and production crews.

A 20-piece orchestra has been assembled under the direction of Harry Pirpoint of the Westminster Choir College. John Miller and Robert McCulloch of the Choir College are responsible for the orchestrations; sets have been designed and built under the guidance of Henry Minden; Linda Wegelin is in charge of choreography; and Mrs. Walker Stevenson, Jr. has designed and assembled the costumes.

Mrs. Tristram Johnson and Karl Light head a cast that has had unusually wide experience. Tickets for an evening of tuneful entertainment are at Hinkson's, the University Store and the box office.

MURRAY THEATRE

The Theatre Intime has launched its 1952 season with "The Trojan War Will Not Take Place," the significant mixture of wit and wisdom by Jean Giradoux. The ambitious production, which runs through March 15, Sunday excepted, at the Murray Theatre on the University Campus, is notable for impressive staging, first-rate acting in a cast of 35 and the sparkling comedy with which the acknowledged current master of drama in Europe sugar-coats his sometime cloudy thought.

Acting plaudits go to Maurine Matthews, Peggy Kalmar Allison, Daniel Seltzer, John DeBritto and William Nicosen among the central characters, and Director John Capisis has put together excellent support for the principals in this satire on the events preceeding the Trojan War. The play has a must-see value for students of drama, as well as a provoking entertainment value.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA

The Princeton University Orchestra, composed of students, faculty members and townspeople, will be heard Sunday night at 8:30 in Alexander Hall. Russell A. Cook will conduct; admission is without charge.

The program will include "The Impressario" Overture, K. 486 by Mozart; Symphony in G Major, No. 88, Haydn; Concerto in D Major for Harpsichord and Orchestra by Haydn; and Eight Russian Folk Songs for Orchestra by Liadov.

BALLAD SINGER

Tom Glazer will give a program of English, Scottish and American ballads in 50 McCosh Hall Tuesday night at 8:30. Well-known for his radio and television programs, he made his debut in New York's Town Hall four years ago. Tickets for the concert, well worth hearing—Continued on Page 7

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

Basketball Race Tightens. While Princeton basketball fans wait to see if the Tiger quintet can stretch its winning streak to ten straight against Lafayette at Easton Saturday night, a lot of them will have their television sets glued to Channel 7. The Cornell-Penn game will be shown there starting at 9 o'clock.

You can get a pretty good argument as to which team should win to benefit Princeton most. Current standings show the Orange and Black in front with a 9-1 mark. Cornell next at 8-1 and Penn third with 7-2. One school of thought holds that the Quakers are the biggest threat and that if Cornell wins over them, Princeton has only to beat Columbia next Wednesday to put Howie Dallmar's operatives out of contention.

Those who hope Cornell beats Penn in the Palestra have a bit of wishful thinking on their hands, however, for they point out how satisfactory it would be if the Ithacans were then upended by Columbia. They play the Lions in New York Monday night.

Having Penn out of the running before it plays here a week from Saturday would be worthwhile from Princeton's point of view if Cornell doesn't move out too far. If the Ithacans suddenly turn so hot that they beat both the Quakers and the Lions on the road, they'll leave Princeton with the job of defeating these two teams to make sure it ties the Red. Cornell's final game is with Dartmouth at Ithaca, a contest that the Hanover Indians are most unlikely to win.

It was the Tigers' game with the Green here Saturday night that provided them with victory number nine and first place in the league. Presenting one of the weakest first-half performances seen in Dillon Gym in many months, Dartmouth trailed by 42-15 after 20 minutes. Big Foster Cooper had more field goals and only one less point than the entire eight men who saw action for the visitors.

With substitutes used freely, each team scored 31 points in the second half and it was a 74-46 final. Some indication of Princeton's improvement is to be had in recalling that at Hanover less than two months ago, the Tigers barely edged out a 50-48 triumph over the same Dartmouth quintet.

Harvard made it closer Friday night, trading at 40-34 of the first period, 18-17, and bothering the

was unusually well attended. A young people's service at the Methodist Church Sunday afternoon, arranged by Mrs. David Weimer, also drew a large attendance. Mrs. Gordon Mahy, Jr. was the speaker.

Robert Braden, a senior at Princeton High School, won second place in the nation-wide "talent search" for young scientists conducted by the Westinghouse Corporation. Son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Braden of Little Brook Road, he won a $2,000 scholarship (which he plans to use at Cornell) by designing and building an electric brain.

The 40th anniversary of girl scouting will be marked with a dinner Wednesday night at Trinity Church. Sponsored by the Princeton Girl Scout Council, the affair will have Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, long active in this work, as its principal speaker.

Two fires and seven inches of snow made news in Princeton last week. Of the fires, the first was at The Flower Basket, 136 Nassau Street, where the smoke killed a number of pet birds and fish, and the second damaged an unused portion of the field house at University Field. Grass being burned nearby spread to vines on the building and then the roof.

The First Aid Unit's new ambulance will be on view at the head of Palmer Square Friday and Saturday. The unit will dispose of its 11-year old ambulance and keep two in service.

ing, are on sale at the University Store for 50 cents.

FILM CLASSICS

Group Arts' second picture of its present series, "Carnival in Flinders," will be shown Friday night at 7 and again at 9 in 10 McCosh. A 1936 French film, it records in broad and sophisticated fashion the efforts of a group of courageous Flemish women to save their town during a Spanish invasion. Tickets at the door.

EUROPA THEATRE

"Children of Paradise," a French epic of considerable proportions, will be on view at this New Brunswick theatre through Friday. Starting Saturday, Ingrid Bergman will be seen as "Joan of Arc," one of the topflight performances of screen history. Shown for the first time at popular prices, this fine drama is definitely one to be seen. Shows at 7 and 9:20; Sunday at 7:45 and 10:15.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Viva Zapata (Thurs.-Sat.) is John Steinbeck's drama of the Mexican who led a rebellion in the early days of this century. Marlon Brando is in the title role, with Jean Peters opposite him. Action develops on a grand scale to turn the picture into a slambang horse opera; Mr. Steinbeck's thoughts on social reform are quite ordinary.

Lone Star (Sun.-Tues.) is a rock 'em, sock 'em western in which Clark Gable, dispatched by President Andrew Jackson to persuade Sam Houston to bring Texas into the U.S., conquers all—including the Mexicans and Ava Gardner. Enough action and good photography to submerge numerous plot implausibilities.

Five Fingers (Wed.-Sat.) records the supposedly true bit of history that a British spy sold the Germans the date and place of the D-Day invasion. Most of the action is set in neutral Turkey, where James Mason, Danielle Darrieux and others are involved in a satisfactory sequence of suspense, drama and romance.

THE GARDEN

Submarine Command (Fri.-Sat.) is long on talk and short on action as it tells of William Holden's eventual ability to atone in the Korean fighting for a costly mistake he made as a sub commander on the last day of World War II. The infrequent battle scenes are good.

In Old Chicago (Mon.-Tues.), a reissue, is the colorful period piece which pictures the bustling Windy City in its early years that led up to the fire of 1871. Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche head the cast. (Wed.-Thurs.)

IT'S NEW TO US

without the cloth for about 75 cents. Instrumental music is sewed together so that it lies flat on the music rack.

Seems to us that parents might not like their children's libraries with Mrs. Waage in mind. Every family has treasured children's books, maybe ones that belonged to mother and dad or even to grandmothers. Passing down from generation to generation, their ears get dogged and a rebinding would not only make them sturdy enough for the present crop of children but fortify them for other generations as well. For the older children in your family, a thesis can be done in heavy board for $1.

You can reach Mrs. Waage by phoning her at 2036 any evening. Better still—drop her a card at 8 Valley Road. (Her baby wakes up every time the phone rings!) She'll pick up and deliver.

Relax Slacks. Bert-Ann, the lingerie shop at 188 Nassau, has some wonderful new lounge clothes that will go right outdoors when the sun says so. One is a—well, "garment" is about the only word we can think of. It isn't a dress, a brunch coat or anything familiar. It's sort of like a sack and you belt in its folds to get a tiny waist and full skirt.

The neck is a deep, flattering scoop—front and back—with shoulders that are only narrow ties made of white pique. Comes in soft plaid cotton, small, medium and large for $5.95.

Easier to describe is a line of slate-blue denim loungers. This is a more positive shade than the old faded blue. It makes up into a wrap around with a big white daisy in applique growing on the pocket. To match, a mandarin jacket with white applique on its collar. Also you can get—my dear!—pajama pants. These are pedal pushers with a Southwest accent.

Still another kind of jacket to wear with your pajama pants. This one, an Eisenhower (careful! we are non-partisan) in the same slate blue with white cotton rib at waist, neck and short cuff. Denims range from $3.95 for the pants to $6.95 for the wrap-around.

Old Nanny Etticat would never recognize the stiffened nylon petticoats on the Bert-Ann racks. Crisper than any starched cotton, they wash and still keep their spine. For $5.95 in white.

Stiff, but not quite so much so, is a taffeta petticoat for $3.95 in a candy-red-and-white stripe you'll be sure to exhibit below the hem of your skirt. A great thing about this petticoat: it has crinolines to sustain the hem, but the crinolines are covered at the edges with white satin ribbon. How many times has a crinoline underpinning enaged your hose? No more, with this cover.

Sheer nylon makes blouses, calmly tailored, in a cool green that looks like mint ice cream. Pink, too. And what do we find but green shamrocks all over white nylon!

Everglade makes a blouse of slightly openwork fabric like a man's summer shirt. Another blouse, striped, has elbow length sleeves that button back to let your arms tan. Most blouses are $5.95.

Construction Costs
When a reputable builder contracts to build a home or other building for you, he will give you the materials and workmanship for which you are paying. Give the same contract to a builder who is cutting corners to cut costs, and you get inferior materials and workmanship. You get only what you pay for.
"There is hardly anything in the world, that some man cannot make a little worse and sell a little cheaper, and the people who consider price only, are this man's lawful prey."
